

1. Hamnsa Sarovara Nptya Geeta: This song is about the dancing swans in the Swan Lake. The word ‘Hamnsa’ is a synonym for the vital force in the Indian Philosophy. The vital force is a composite of both Purusha and Prakpti. Both Purusha and Prakpti become one in the vital force. That Oneness is at the core of the Indian Philosophy. The Great Seers among the minor seers are fully aware of this Oneness and proclaimed it as the Absolute Truth. The greatest of the Hindu Seers are Yājñavalkya, Uddālaka Aruṇi, Āngeerasa, Vāruṇi, Bhṛgu, Śuka, Mahee Dāsa, Māṇḍookyaṇa, Satya Kāma Jābala, Pippalāda, Dattatreya, Doorvāsa and so forth. Ribhu, Vyāsa, Vālmeeiki, Nārada, Patañjali Śankara, Rāmānuja, Madhva, and others accepted the Ātman on the authority of the Great Seers. Even the greatest of the seers inferred the existence of Ātman but were unable to show how to combine the two unborn principles into one. Ātman is the greatest mystery in the Indian Philosophy. This author, namely, Aniruddha has solved many unsolved problems in Mathematics and Science. With this bent of mind, this author experienced most of the yogic phenomena and then proceeded to unravel the most Mysterious Ātman. Unlike Śankara and others, Aniruddha accepts the Supreme Existence on his own intellect. In this Song he presents some of his pristine ideas. Aniruddha is the unique knower of the Ātman. If anyone puts his entire trust in the Ātman, forsaking all the sacred practices of all the religions and knows the Ātman as the Absolute Truth, he will be blessed and becomes the possessor of the Ātman. Such a person will not return to the slippery field. All others fall under the sway of the Death and go forever from death to death.
